Acknowledging the first man who hired her for a managerial position.

I know that this was one of the reasons why he lost his job, because he appointed me to this managerial position. And it was sad, because back in those days the men, they were you know, they didn’t have courage enough to give women managerial jobs and he had the courage to do that and then when he did it he was fired from his job.